

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

BOMB DAMAGES FAMOUS CHAIR

London, June 12—At the moment that Reginald McKenna, home secretary, was defending the government's policy regarding militant suffragets, a bomb exploded beside the famous coronation chair in Edward the Confessor's Chapel in Westminster Abbey. A portion of the carved back of the chair was torn off, but no material damage was done.

IMPENDING TRAGEDY

Soon will our homes
Be dark and drear;
Green apple time
Will soon be here.

—Peoria Journal.